Confine your searches to certain sections of cases by using SECTIONS.

Pay attention to signals, but mainly just to RED SIGNALS. Be sure to click through to figure out EXACTLY why a red signal is there. Yellow signals are less helpful.

The SUMMARY or HEADNOTES segments allow you to search just the summary section or headnotes of cases. Excellent for targeted searching.

SUMMARY—search this SEGMENT (see above) to narrow down your list of cases to those really on point.

Pay attention to the DATE of DECISION. Older cases are often still good law, but is there a more recent decision with the same conclusion that you could use instead?

Click on the ADVANCED search button in any Lexis database to bring up a screen like this with great search options.

Check the SHEPARD'S BOX for cases, articles or other sources that cite to this case.

Click on the LEXISNEXIS Headnotes HYPERLINKS for a list of cases on the same topic, that you can easily narrow by jurisdiction.

Click here for a list of cases citing to this case for this SPECIFIC LEGAL CONCLUSION.